NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

At Minneapolis last Tuesday night there was a brutal prize fight, followed by a drunken row. Yesterday a bill to make prize fighting a state prison offense was introduced in the Legislature, and is already well on its way to enactment into law.

SENATOR QUAY left Washington for Florida yesterday. On departing he left word that he would oppose the appointment of any man to office who should apply to him for assistance before the 4th of March. He can reckon on a big mail the morning of the 5th.

JACOB TOME has decided to establish a free seminary for boys and girls between ten and eighteen years of age at Port Deposit, Md. The boys and girls of Cecil county are to be preferred pupils. Mr. Tome has $5,000,000 with which to carry out his noble plan.

The suicide record of yesterday includes Thomas H. Barrett of New York, Henry Luke of Albany, Andrew Schoen of Scranton, Pa., and William C. Smith of Providence, R. I. The latter was teller in the City Treasurer's office and a defaulter for $1,500. The handy revolver was used in every case mentioned.

As a device for starting a boom in the re-voivier trade, a few White Cap notices would undoubtedly "take the cake." There is without doubt a good deal of practical joking in this business, but when a man is actually attacked, he will be forgiven if he "didn't know it was loaded." The bogus White Cap deserves no better treatment than the genuine article, if he actually attempts to get down to business.

JOINT conventions by Legislatures concluded the formalities of electing to the United States Senate yesterday. W. D. Washburn of Minnesota, John R. McPherson of New Jersey, Preston B. Plumb of Kansas, Isham G. Harris of Tennessee, Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, Matthew W. Ransom of North Carolina, and Joseph N. Dolph of Oregon. These are all present Senators except Washburn. Four are Republicans and three Democrats.

Nor a juror was secured in the Cleary boodle case yesterday, though one of the men examined declared that he had never heard of the previous trial, the Board of Aldermen of 1884, or any of the matters connected with the trial. He had heard of District Attorney Fellows, a fact which showed the possession of more intelligence than is wanted in such a case. Two hundred and thirty-one men had been examined up to adjournment. The court may find it necessary to wait for the arrival of the next emigrant ship.

CABINET gossip has found at last something apparently tangible to tie to. John Wamamaker of Philadelphia gave up his trip to Europe for which he had made complete arrangements, to answer an invitation from Gen. Harrison to Indianapolis. Wamamaker went yesterday, conferred with the President, and came away radiant. In conversation afterwards he said the European trip had been abandoned. He also said that his interview with Gen. Harrison had been satisfactory. Hence the chorus of conclusions that he is one of the elect.

The West Virginia Legislature failed again to elect a United States Senator yesterday. Goff received 41 votes, Kenna 25, scattering 23, absent 2. One of the absent members, a Republican, has been sick, but was expected to return to-day. Forty-six votes are necessary for a choice. It is now understood that the Union Labor members will vote for Goff. The opposition to Kenna is growing, and one of his friends said yesterday: "If we can't elect Kenna we intend to elect Goff." The failure of the Democrats to unite their forces is making the party uneasy elsewhere. A Republican Senator is not an impossible outcome.

The case of W. W. Willard, the Democratic Troy Superintendent of Police who drove Republican voters from the polls at the last election, caused their arrest and imprisonment, and broke the lines of honest voters to make room for repeaters, is to be taken into the United States Court. The Democratic members of the Police Board found no ground for his removal after an investigation of the charges, but the same amount of evidence will undoubtedly be sufficient to land him in state prison for a term of years if a federal court takes hold of him. Willard appears to have overlooked the fact that there was an election of Congressmen and Electors, as well as of state and county officers. That takes him beyond the protection of Democratic state courts, and will probably place him beyond the reach of a pardon by Gov. Hill.

SOME doubt is expressed as to the legality of the present proceeding for calling the Legislatures of Texas, Delaware and Maryland together in extra session to correct the blunders that will otherwise cost Mr. Cleveland the votes of those states. They have adjourned sine die, and it has always been understood their official existence terminated with that act. The votes will undoubtedly be credited to the proper candidates as an act of courtesy, though if the result were to be determined by them something serious might happen. It is a little singular that Congress, in framing the Presidential succession bill, did not provide for continuing the official tenure of the electors till the 4th of March. Then there would be abundant right to correct errors, while, if such a thing as the death of both the President and Vice President-elect were to happen, they could be recovered and choose men of the majority party for the vacancy. Now, if both Gen. Harrison and Mr. Morton should die before the 4th of March, Mr. Bayard would become President for four years under the provisions of the law. The contingency of two deaths fraught with such immense consequences seems remote and improbable, but it is not so much so as that of the Attorney General reaching the Presidency through the death of President, Vice-President and six Cabinet officers above him, a possibility that was amply and carefully provided for. The defect will probably be attended to by the next Congress, if pressed upon its attention. The powers and functions of the judicial college should be well informed day and night by the new cabinet and installed.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—The North German Gazette [Prince Bismarck's organ] denies the existence of any treaty which precludes any European power from acquiring or seeking to acquire ascendancy in Samoa. The treaties between Samoa, Germany, England and the United States, the Gazette further says, provide that Samoa shall concede to each treaty power equal rights with any other power but no treaty regarding the neutrality or independence of Samoa exists between Germany and the United States.

It is a little singular that Congress, in framing the Presidential succession bill, did not provide for continuing the official tenure of the electors till the 4th of March. Then there would be abundant right to correct errors, while, if such a thing as the death of both the President and Vice-President-elect were to happen, they could be re-elected and choose men of the majority party for the vacancy. Now, if both Gen. Harrison and Mr. Morton should die before the 4th of March, Mr. Bayard would become President for four years under the provisions of the law. The contingency of two deaths fraught with such immense consequences seems remote and improbable, but it is not so much so that of the Attorney General reaching the Presidency through the death of President, Vice-President and six Cabinet officers above him, a possibility that was amply and carefully provided for. The defect will probably be attended to by the next Congress, if pressed upon its attention. The powers and functions of the judicial college should be well informed day and night the new Cabinet and installed.

VERY PLAIN TALK.

Gen. Butterworth of Cincinnati blurted out an old-fashioned American opinion of the dictatorial manner of labor organizations yesterday during a debate in the House over a proposition to reduce the royalty on steam printing presses used in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing from $1 to one cent per thousand impressions. The effect of the reduction would be to drive out the presses and restore the hand printing machines. This would call into service 160 additional employees in the bureau. The amendment, it appears, had been proposed at the dictation of the organization of hand plate printers. A debate ensued, in which the change was supported by Mr. McCauley of New Jersey and opposed by Messrs. Landis of Illinois and Long of Massachusetts. Mr. Butterworth joined the latter, and we print a report of his remarks:

"Mr. Butterworth of Ohio said that the organization of the hand-plate printers had declared war upon those machines and had determined that they should go. If they ought to go on their merits, let them go; but if they ought not to go on their merits, the fact that these gentlemen desired them to go was not the slightest reason for putting them out. He had been told (he did not know what truth there was in it) that the men who worked on the steam presses were hissed and annoyed while going to and from work by the hand printers. If this were true, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Superintendent of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing would be vindictive in the right of a man in this country to earn his bread. (Applause.) If it were true, and he had been Superintendent, the man who had hissed would not have come into the Bureau if he could prevent. This was still America, and his boy had a right to work without asking the permission of any organization of men. If he could not, he (Mr. Butterworth) was in favor of revolution. (Applause.) He had been informed that as the steam press men went to work, the 'Dead March' was whistled. If that were true, it was an unpardonable outrage committed within the shadow of the Capitol. The speaker wanted to put himself in this position—that not by his vote should there be a change in the presses at the dictation of any combination, society or collection of individuals. A committee had been appointed by the House to look into the character of the work of the steam press; and he was solicitous to know whether the witnesses testified as they would have testified had it not been for the reign of terror established in the Bureau. (Applause.)

Mr. Foran—"By Mr. Graves or by the men? Who has the right to discharge?"

Mr. Butterworth—"We have pretty nearly reached a condition of things in this country where nobody has the right to discharge." (Laughter.)

Mr. Foran—"And I am glad of it."

Mr. Butterworth—"I recommend to the Knights of Labor to establish a whipping post in front of the Capitol, and lick about twenty-five members of the House on the last Saturday in each month. (Laughter.) I hope that in God's providence the time will come when our manhood will assert itself, and we will not sneak like politicians, as I have seen the House do over and over again, at the dictation of some gentlemen in the galleries. (Applause.) I have compromised my manhood once or twice; I hope that the next time I do it I shall be paralyzed where I stand. (Applause.) We have witnessed enough of the vassalage of the Senate and House and members of the Government in various places."

"The papers, the speaker continued, teemed with suggestions that men were to be shot for making contracts for their labor. They were to be hunted. He objected to that, and the reason he spoke of it now was that it was well known that whenever a thing was requested by a certain organization the House did it and hunted for the reasons to do it."

These are old-fashioned ideas and may be nearly obsolete now, but they accord with the American view of independent manhood. Gen. Butterworth evidently believes that Congress is elected to transact the business of the United States government, and not to take its orders from men who look upon that government as a machine to be run for their sole advantage.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR MR. CLEVELAND.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations yesterday agreed to and reported an amendment to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill for the appropriation of $100,000 to establish a naval rendezvous and coaling station on the Samoan Islands, and $50,000 to be at the discretion of the President in protecting the rights and property of American citizens in Samoa and in carrying out our treaty obligations toward the King of that country. The amendment coincides with suggestions made by Secretary Whitney, who wishes to buy land for a coaling station instead of relying upon one-year leases, and has also asked Congress for "a definite national policy regarding this group of islands" for his information and guidance, and "reasonable provision for the future necessities of commerce and of the navy in that locality." The amendment gives the President full discretion in the expenditure of the half million for defense. It is a notice to the administration that it is expected to employ adequate means for the protection of American citizens and the carrying out of the terms of the treaty.

An article which we copy from the Tribune elsewhere shows what a diplomatic muddle Mr. Bayard has made of this Samoan matter by his secret agreement. Though the secret is still well guarded in the State Department, enough correspondence is brought to light to show that Mr. Bayard has been beaten at every point, that even the free and fair election of a King and Vice King by the people, which was one of the provisions of the compact, was effected by German dictation, the chiefs being forced to sign submission to Tamasese, the usurper forced upon them, "under cover of the German guns." And Mr. Bayard has, without protest, allowed this proceeding to be established as the popular election which was provided for in the secret agreement. The Sun this morning prints a lengthy review of occurrences at the Islands, including some protests by Commander Leary of the United States steamer Adams against outrages upon American citizens, and the insolent replies of the German commander, and indignantly refers to the evidence thus furnished of Bayard's ineptitude, as being contained, "not in any possibly exaggerated or inaccurate newspaper correspondence from Apia, but in the official reports and letters of a brave and intelligent American naval officer, whose honest blood must have boiled again and again when he remembered the restraint he was under, thanks to the feeble policy of a bamboozled and outwitted administration at Washington."

The action of the Foreign Relations Committee will without doubt be approved by the Senate. The action of the House will be watched with interest. Under ordinary circumstances such an expression of confidence in the administration from an opposition Senate would be quickly seized upon, for for no other reason more patriotic than the opportunity presented to handle and expend a large sum of money. But Mr. Cleveland is said to show some embarrassment over the trouble, due to his reluctance to hand it over to an unsettled and disturbing condition to his successor. He can accept the action of the Senate as a warrant to him to proceed at once to assert the rights of the United States and the honor of the American flag. This is a magnificent opportunity for him to cover a multitude of mistakes by one grand act of patriotism and courage.

DIED AT HIS POST.

The closeness of the House in the thirty-first Congress has made the health and the lives of members a subject of unusual interest. When the health of Representative Nutting of the Oswego district, this state, was announced to be precarious, there was much anxiety among Republicans, which was not relieved until the statement was published that the complaint was of a milder nature and that he was recovering. Then came the news that Representative Laird of Nebraska was dying of brain fever. Mr. Laird is still alive, but it is feared that his mind is permanently injured, and that he will never again be capable of doing public service even if he survives. This will undoubtedly take one vote from the Republican side, as Mr. Laird is not in the proper mental condition to prepare and tender a resignation.

The work of actual death, however, was reserved till yesterday, when Hon. James N. Burnes of the fourth Missouri district fell at his desk and was carried unconscious to his hotel. Though three practicing physicians, members of the House, were instantly at his side and other medical assistance was called, he lived only till about one o'clock this morning. His death is the first on the list of the new House. He was first elected in 1882 by a plurality of 2,754, and entered the forty-eighth Congress as a Democrat. He has been re-elected at each successive election, his plurality in 1888 being 3,137. His home is the Republican city of St. Joseph, and his district includes Andrew, Atchison, Buchanan, Holt, Nodaway and Platte counties. He has been an active, distinguished and honorable Representative, and the manifestations of grief over his sudden demise are deep and earnest on both sides of the House.

The political Almanacs received at this office, including those published by the Albany Argus, Brooklyn Argle, Philadelphia Record, Philadelphia Times, and several others of Democratic origin, in their lists of the fifty-first Congress invariably concede the Republicans five majorities. The hopeless illness of Mr. Laird and the death of Mr. Burnes leave the relative strength of the two parties unchanged, and weaken the argument in favor of an extra session because of the contingency of death. An extra session will with out doubt be necessary for the admission of the Northwestern territories and a proper adjustment of the revenue laws, but it is not necessary in order to protect the rights or present advantages of either party in the organization of the House.

THE SECRET SAMOA COMPACT.

What Mr. Bayard Agreed to—How Bismarck Observed the Bargain.
(From the New York Tribune.)

Secretary Bayard, in a recent interview published in the Baltimore Sun, blurted out the fact that the Samoan Conference resulted in a secret agreement. As Congress has been invited to assume joint responsibility with the administration for American policy in the South Pacific, it ought to have been put in possession of the terms of this agreement when the President submitted what he considered as a full exhibit of the correspondence. This duty was urgent, since the impression prevailed that the conference had adjourned without reaching any decision respecting Samoa affairs. It is not, however, reasonably expected to take action on the subject, as it has not been informed of the precise nature of the obligations assumed by the government in the secret agreement, which, as Secretary Bayard explicitly admits, was entered into by the conference.

What was this agreement? There are several dispatches in the budget of diplomatic correspondence published last April which throw light upon this interesting question. The first session of the conference was held at Apia, Samoa, on the 10th of July, 1887, and during July. On August 19 a German squadron arrived at Samoa with a demand for indemnity; Tamasese was immediately installed as king; and on September 17 King Mafaitoa was received on board the flag ship Albatross in the name of war. When details of these proceedings had been supplied to the State Department from Apia, Secretary Bayard sent duplicate copies of the following dispatch to Mr. Pendleton in Berlin and to Mr. Phelps in London.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 12, 1887.
Mr. Bayard informs Mr. Pendleton that from the reports of Mr. Sewall, United States Consul-General at Apia, it appears that the secret agreement is a very distressing and that it can only be made worse by a continuance of the war. Mr. Sewall has been instructed to preserve a strict neutrality, but this Government is anxious in pursuance of its treaty obligations to the Samoan people to secure a peaceful and a moderate settlement of the Samoan question, and the issuance of identical instructions to the representatives of the treaty powers at Apia to favor such an election, leaving other matters to be discussed in conference if subsequent considerations should require it.

Here, then, is a definite reference to the secret agreement. Germany, after participating in a reference held on the basis of the neutrality and autonomy of Samoa, had violated its pledges to England and the United States, disturbed the existing status, and retained control of the islands by declaring war on the king who had been restrained by American consular officers from defending himself against Tamasese, Secretary Bayard, dazed by German treachery and insolence, naturally caught up the secret agreement, the ink of which was hardly dry, and suggested the immediate election of a king, "as agreed to in conference."

The sequel is contained in a letter from Mr. Pendleton to dated October 13, 1887, describing an interview with Prince Bismarck on the previous day. Without reading his dispatch, the American Minister proposed to the German Government "an immediate election of a king and vice-king, as agreed to in conference," and that the three Powers should issue identical instructions to their representatives to promote such election. Prince Bismarck, after listening with "an attention almost painfully strained to catch each word," immediately replied that there had been an election of a king, and on the next day produced a dispatch from the German Commodore stating that the chiefs had recognized Tamasese's authority on September 15. Mr. Pendleton again renewed Mr. Bayard's proposals for an election of a king and vice-king, laying, as we have written, some stress upon the words, "as agreed to in conference," and the propriety of identical instructions. Prince Bismarck "rather felicitated me," remarks the American Minister, "that the laudable purpose of every government in preserving the immediate election of a king as a means of preserving the peace and order of the island, had been anticipated by the Samoans, and that this having been so readily accomplished and with happy results, there was nothing for the government to do but to recognize the existing status." The secret agreement, then, related to the election of a king and vice-king; and when Secretary Bayard, after the dignity of the United States had been wantonly affronted

by the bad faith and usurpations of the Germans in Samoa, mildly suggested that the compact should be carried out, Prince Bismarck insisted that it had been done already, and sent his compliments and best wishes to Secretary Bayard. How had it been done? The chiefs had been forced to sign submission to Tamasese under cover of the German guns. Bismarck declared that it was strictly forbidden that any discussion should take place relating to the question as to whether it is good or not that Tamasese is King of Samoa, both at the present and at any future time. The helpless chiefs, humiliated in a corner, and deprived of their liberties, signed a paper which was handed to them with menace. That was the popular election on which Mr. Bayard allowed himself to be felicitated as fully in accord with the secret agreement of the conference.

AN ENGLISH MEDICAL AUTHORITY affirms that the best regimen for preserving health may be summed up in the maxim, "keep the head cool, the feet warm and the bowels active." There is a world of wisdom in this observation. Obstructed circulation, or constipation, is an exciting cause of other diseases, and with many persons of sedentary habits or occupations this inaction of the bowels is a source of constant annoyance, producing piles, prostrations of the system, neuralgia and various other symptoms. All these are ward off and health is maintained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Tablets.

I have used it myself, and I can testify that it is a most reliable medicine. I have used it myself, and I can testify that it is a most reliable medicine."

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than malarial fever. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing and dangerous of diseases. It is a disease of the blood, and the records show very few cures of malarial fever of cure by any of the multitudinous remedies now in vogue. The introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

AN EXPLOSION IN RONDOUT THIS P. M.—
Not Much Damage was Done—Black Clouds of Smoke—The Facts.

At about 4:25 o'clock this afternoon, an explosion of gas in the brook sewer that crosses Pierpont-street, Rondout, close by the Kingston Gas Company's Works, occurred, and the air was filled with dense black smoke and flames, which leaped over the roof of a two story house owned by James Malia.

The side of the house was blackened and a fence took fire, but was put out by a crowd that congregated.

Some of the burning stuff floated down the stream, and a sharp watch was kept that it did not set anything on fire.

The report that one of the Gas Company's tanks had exploded created excitement and people ran in every direction to the spot.

The Superintendent of the Company said that it must have been sewer gas that exploded.

The Mill Street Engine House bell was rung, and fire companies of the Eastern Department responded.

THE LATEST ANCIENT SLEIGH.

'Twas Aged When "George W." was Re-proved for Cutting Down This Tree.

It has been stated in these columns that Charles Schultz, of Rondout, takes pride in owning a sleigh in which the "Father of His Country" is said to have ridden during the Revolutionary War. Yesterday, Schultz's pride was "taken down," for on that day a Red Hooker, named Martin, who had read about Schultz's "breast collar," "hit" up, and came to this City to "see about it." His coming was not in vain. He brought a horse attached to one side of the pole of his sleigh by ropes and an old Dutch "breast collar," which was brought from Holland when the Dutch landed on Manhattan Island. The sleigh was old when Washington was re-proved for cutting down his father's cherry tree. When Schultz's attention was called to the rig, he began to grow pale, when the old Dutch bells began to jingle, beads of perspiration came out on his brow, and when the driver said "get up," and reached under the seat for his whip, known to be 150 years old, Schultz fell over into the arms of his friends. When he regained consciousness he gasped: "Boys, I'd give $100 for those bells."

A RONDOUT CARMAN'S VIEWS.

It Pays to Keep Out of Drinking Places—A Case in Point.

A Rondout carman, whose horse and sleigh gives evidence of the owner's prosperity, was asked this forenoon how he managed to keep his rig looking so spruce. The carman replied: "Because I attend to business. When a man wants any carting done, he does not have to look into saloons to find me. I am near my wagon all the time. As a result I get plenty to do. While other carmen are spending money at the bar for drinks, I am looking for something to do. And this is the secret of my horse and wagon looking so well. I can afford to feed my horse better than the men who spend their time looking for something to do in saloons. I have saved a snug sum since I first began carting, and next spring will begin the erection of a house on a lot that I purchased recently."

What a Man who Lives in the Rondout Light House Says He Saw of the Eagles.

It is alleged that some American eagles have been hovering near this City for the past two days.

This forenoon James Murdock, of the lighthouse at the mouth of the Rondout Creek, says he saw the eagles on the ice on the Sleightburg Flats. They were looking for something to eat.

A man with a gun appeared on the shore to shoot them, but when he saw what kind of birds they were he reversed his fire for several crows that cawed in the woods near by.

PASTORS, PEOPLES AND CHURCHES.

The Will of Archbishop Corrigan to this City—General Religious Intelligence.

The Catholic population of the United States, according to the Catholic Directory, is 3,137,676.

The second anniversary of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor held in the Reformed Church, New-Paltz, Sunday evening, was interesting.

The objective point was to devise plans and ways for more vigorous prosecution of State Sunday School mission work and to bring prominently before the Sunday School public the Association in connection with organizing Sunday Schools. Steps were taken to incorporate the Association, under the general corporate laws of this State, for the purpose of creating an endowment fund. Provision was also made for one or more conventions in each of the eight Judicial Districts. The meeting was the largest and most important ever held by the Executive Committee.

AS RELATED BY A HORSE DEALER.

There Seems to be Tricks in All Businesses, Except Dickering in Nags.

It is not often that a dealer in horses gets caught, but a case in point shows how a Rondout dealer was brought up with a round turn. A man named Goodwin, of Palenville, came to this City to purchase a horse. Entering a mart on Abel-street, the following conversation took place:

"I want to buy a horse."

"Good. I have got just the kind of animal that will suit you."

"Trot him out."

The horse was "trotted" out, and the man from Palenville instantly recognized the beast. He had purchased it in Montreal, Canada, 14 years ago. At that time the age of the horse was given as six years. He had owned it 12 years and then sold it to a man who had it two years, thus making its age 20 years. While in Goodwin's possession the animal had acquired the habit of chewing tobacco.

"There," said the dealer, "he's a daisy."

"How old is he?" inquired Goodwin.

"Seven years. He is as sound as a Spanish gold dollar and can turn a mile in less than three years old."

"Are you sure the horse is only seven years old?"

"Give me a chew of tobacco, will you?" said Goodwin. Receiving it he handed the tobacco to the dealer with the remark: "Just see if that horse will chew."

To the surprise of the horseman the animal chewed the cud with evident pleasure and whinnied for more.

"Do you know this horse?" he asked.

"Well, I ought to," replied Goodwin, "being as I owned him 12 years. He was six years old when I bought him and another man had him for two years."

"One out and take a drink," said the dealer. "That is the worst I ever sold in my life."

On Friday the Commission appointed to inquire into the sanity of Stephen Sherman, a prisoner of the Ulster County Jail, Kingston, will convene at the Court House.

STILL ENJOYING THE SLEIGHING.

Kingston City people who "Have Made the Most of the Beautiful Snow."

Kingston City people who own horses and sleighs, made the most of sleighing to-day. Many lively brushes occurred on Albany-avenue. The distance trotted being short, a little more than half a mile, the horses are reared at their greatest speed over the whole course without overdriving. A horseman says it requires a horse that is very quick on a spur to make a good showing.

An Honor From Holland.

The New York Herald, of to-day, says: During the pilgrimage to the "land of dykes and dunes," last summer, by 80 members of the Holland Society, of New-York, the warmest reception was in Leyden. The Third of October Association, which commemorates the triumph of the Leydeners over the Spanish, in 1672, and the students of the University, overwhelmed the American visitors with honors. And now the Secretary of the Holland Society, George W. VanSiclen, has received from the Third of October Association a silver emblem, signifying that he has been elected an honorary member in recognition of the interest he and others of the Holland Society take in the welfare of the mother country.

Old-Time Hiking Bees.

Marius Schoonmaker, in his "History of Kingston," says: "The old-time farmers had their hiking bees. As soon as the corn was brought into the barn and severed from the stalk, neighbors were called in to aid in husking, the barn being as well illuminated as practicable by candles. After the ordinary farm work of the day was finished, the gathering of the neighboring friends commenced and the work began. The jug, or flowing bowl, was frequently passed around, the evening enlivened with songs and stories, and not infrequently followed by a hot pot-pie supper at midnight."

PHASES OF THE SEAMY SIDE.

WORK OF WHITE CAPS OR PRACTICAL JOKERS HERE!

A Milkman who Says He Was Assaulted, and An Insurance Agent who Claims To Have Been "Warned" by "Regulators."

"The fear of hades is the hangman's whip to laud the wretch in order."

Either adulated "practical jokers" are playing pranks herabout or a number of worthless fellows have constituted themselves judges and juries to pass upon the doings of certain citizens. Be that as it may, the "regulators" should be promptly arrested and dealt with "according to law." In two paragraphs annexed the methods of alleged "White Caps" are referred to, also other phases of the seamy side.

ALLEGED WHITE CAPS HERE.

Peter Dahlen, a milk peddler, lives in this City. According to statements made by him, he has been regulated by "White Caps." One night recently, while on his way home, Dahlen was stopped by several men, whose faces and heads were masked in white. They handled him roughly, and during the scrimmage to free himself, he tore the mask from the face of one of the men and discovered his identity. Since then, it is alleged, the fellow has apologized to Dahlen and told him that the whole thing was a joke. Dahlen is still considering whether he will let the matter stand as a joke or have his assailants arrested.

Several Rondout young men have received warning letters from alleged "White Caps." In each instance the person is notified that unless he "turns over a new leaf and becomes a better ornament to society he will be summarily dealt with." One young man, an insurance agent, does not know whether to treat the matter as a joke or the part of friends or serious except the warning as coming from an organized band of regulators. He has purchased a revolver, and it will be dangerous for a person to go about masquerading in white 'nights.

Darius N. Case, indicted by the Dutchess County Grand Jury for stealing horses, etc., from a barn at Lithgow, on November 10, has been acquitted.

His legs below the knee and his right arm were cut off.

Joseph, the little ten-year-old son of Judge John J. Beattie, of Warwick, met with a painful and serious accident last night. The bones were smashed.

Game Protector, Dr. Willott Kidd won the case brought by him against W. H. Baker, of this City, at Goshen, before Judge Barnard, yesterday. On October 3, last, Dr. Kidd discovered some snared birds at Baker's market. Suit was brought for a penalty for having seven birds, making $70. The jury brought in a verdict for $20, and the sum certain costs and expenses. There was no evidence to show that the defendant knew that the birds in question had been snared. Judge Barnard accordingly granted a stay of proceedings in the case, which will be taken by the defendant to the General Term to be held in Brooklyn in May next.

CONCERNING SOME DUTCH DOGGERS.

A Saugerties Correspondent Who Did Not Know What He Was Writing About.

The following has been received by THE FREEMAN: "A Saugerties newspaper correspondent airt what he does not know concerning the song composed about the burning of the village of Kingston. He says the song making fun of the effect of the approach of the British on the Dutch burghers was to have been classic poetry. He says the words which say the wagon must be hitched before the horse are misquoted. In this he is wrong. Not only is the Dutch writer about to say literally 'hitch the wagon before the horse' and ride the mare to Hurley too' in the song, but he is also made to tell his slave to load the wagon with pumpkins, when more valuable property could have been placed in the wagon. The old settler also wanted sand shot into the eyes of the 'trovas' or Royal soldiers, when they landed, despite the fact that there was plenty of ammunition. The writer of this has often heard his father and mother say that the original words, which were a mixture of Holland Dutch and English. He has also frequently heard it interpreted to him."

Twenty Thousand Dollars go up in Smoke—A Fireman Injured.

A dispatch from Port Jervis to THE FREEMAN, to-day, stated: The hardware store of Swinton, Shimer & Company was burned last night. Loss, $20,000. Insurance, $15,000. Fireman William H. Strong fell from the roof of the burning building and broke his thigh.

Journalistic.

A fire in Matteawan, on Monday, gave the Journal office there a close call and endangered other buildings.

Hugh Hastings left the New York World on Christmas to become the Albany correspondent of the New York Times, in place of Mr. Spinnery, who made the appointment.

Mr. Hastings has been a political reporter longer than his superior, C. Y. Dubois' career in place of amusement. On this night only, the doors will be opened at 7:40 o'clock, curtain 8:20. A company of this standing can be literally praised in advance in these columns without fear of hyperbole. People who have read with confidence the amusement of the glowing column puffing given 10-cent "freaks"—the outcome of donations of beer and cigars—printed from time to time in the morning apology here, should not labor under the impression that Mr. Gillette's company is "another poor or disgraceful show, puffing to the skies, a la Mitchell-Kilrain or Smith's 10-cent menagerie."

Y. M. C. A. ENTERTAINMENT.

Leland F. Powers will give dramatic impersonations in "David Copperfield" and the "Chariot Race" of "Ben Hur," in the Rondout Presbyterian Chapel to-morrow evening, under the auspices of the Rondout Young Men's Christian Association. A. H. Wilcox, formerly Secretary of the Rondout Y. M. C. A., writing from Norwalk, Conn., says: "I want to say in behalf of Leland T. Powers, who appears in Rondout, in the Y. M. C. A. Course, that he is the best impersonator of Dickens I have ever seen or heard of. Every body who hears his rendition of David Copperfield will talk about it for a month afterward."

BALETS.

The masquerade ball of the Nineteenth Separate Company, of Poughkeepsie, last night, was largely attended and successful.

The members of Centurion Lodge, K. of P., will give their first annual ball in Sammons Hall, Rosendale, on Tuesday evening, January 29.

The members of the Hauck Gymnasium Club, of Rondout, have prepared a program of athletic exercises to be given on the night of their masquerade ball, January 28.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY.

The members of the First Sick and Aid Society will celebrate their Twenty-third Anniversary in England's Hall, on Union-avenue, Rondout, on Tuesday, February 5.

FAIR.

The closing exercises of St. Joseph's Church fair, held during the holidays, will take place at the Academy of Music this evening.

Protection Needed.

The Goshen correspondent of the Middle-town Press writes: "The law should be enforced in reference to putting out the danger signal at houses where there is scarlet fever. A school girl was seen to go into a house that is most sorely afflicted with the disease, and is so much the worse. What protection have we under such circumstances?"

NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

At Minneapolis last Tuesday night there was a brutal prize fight, followed by a drunken row. Yesterday a bill to make prize fighting a state prison offense was introduced in the Legislature, and is already well on its way to enactment into law.

SENATOR QUAY left Washington for Florida yesterday. On departing he left word that he would oppose the appointment of any man to office who should apply to him for assistance before the 4th of March. He can reckon on a big mail the morning of the 5th.

JACOB TOME has decided to establish a free seminary for boys and girls between ten and eighteen years of age at Port Deposit, Md. The boys and girls of Cecil county are to be preferred pupils. Mr. Tome has $3,000,000 with which to carry out his noble plan.

The suicide record of yesterday includes Thomas H. Barrett of New York, Henry Luke of Albany, Andrew Schoon of Scranton, Pa., and William C. Smith of Providence, R. I. The latter was taller in the City Treasurer's office and a defaulter for $1,500. The handy revolver was used in every case mentioned.

As a device for starting a boom in the receiver trade, a few White Cap notices would undoubtedly "take the cake." There is without doubt a good deal of practical joking in this business, but when a man is actually attacked, he will be forgiven if he "didn't know it was loaded." The bogus White Cap deserves no better treatment than the genuine article, if he actually attempts to get down to business.

JOINT conventions by Legislatures concluded the formalities of electing to the United States Senate yesterday. W. D. Washburn of Minnesota, John R. McPherson of New Jersey, Preston B. Plumb of Kansas, Isham G. Harris of Tennessee, Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, Matthew W. Ransom of North Carolina, and Joseph N. Dolph of Oregon. These are all present Senators except Washburn. Four are Republicans and three Democrats.

Not a juror was secured in the Cleary boodle case yesterday, though one of the men examined declared that he had never heard of the previous trials, the Board of Aldermen of 1884, or any of the matters connected with the trial. He had heard of District Attorney Fellows, a fact which showed the possession of more intelligence than is wanted in such a case. Two hundred and thirty-one men had been examined up to adjournment. The court may find it necessary to wait for the arrival of the next emigrant ship.

CABINET gossips have found at last some thing apparently tangible to tie to John Wanamaker of Philadelphia gave up his trip to Europe for which he had made complete arrangements, to answer an invitation from Gen. Harrison to Indianapolis. Wanamaker went yesterday, conferred with the President-elect four hours, and "came away radiant." In conversation afterwards he said the European trip had been abandoned. He also said that his interview with Gen. Harrison had been satisfactory. Hence the chorus of conclusions that he is one of the elect.

THE West Virginia Legislature failed again to elect a United States Senator yesterday. Goff received 41 votes, Kenna 25, scattering 23, absent 2. One of the absent members, a Republican, has been sick, but was expected to return to-day. Forty-six votes are necessary for a choice. It is now understood that the Union Labor members will vote for Goff. The opposition to Kenna is growing, and one of his friends said yesterday: If we can't elect Kenna we intend to elect Goff. The failure of the Democrats to unite their forces is making the party uneasy elsewhere. A Republican Senator is not an impossible outcome.

THE case of W. W. Willard, the Democratic Trial Superintendent of Police who drove Republican voters from the polls at the last election, caused their arrest and imprisonment, and broke the lines of longest voters to make room for repeaters, is to be taken to the United States Court. The Democratic members of the Police Board found no ground for his removal after an investigation of the charges, but the same amount of evidence will undoubtedly be sufficient to land him in state prison for a term of years if a federal court takes hold of him. Willard appears to have overlooked the fact that there was an election of Congressmen and Electors, as well as of state and county officers. That takes him beyond the protection of Democratic state courts, and will probably place him beyond the reach of a pardon by Gov. Hill.

SOME doubt is expressed as to the legality of the present proceeding for calling the Legislatures of Texas, Delaware and Maryland together in extra session to correct the blunders that will otherwise cost Mr. Cleveland the votes of those states. They have adjourned sine die, and it has always been understood their official existence terminated with that act. The votes will undoubtedly be credited to the proper candidates as an act of courtesy, though if the result were to be determined by them something serious might happen. It is a little singular that Congress, in framing the Presidential succession bill, did not provide for continuing the official tenure of the electors till the 4th of March. Then there would be abundant right to correct errors, while, if such a thing as the death of both the President and Vice-President-elect were to happen, they could be re-elected and choose men of the majority party for the vacancy. Now, if both Gen. Harrison and Mr. Morton should die before the 4th of March, Mr. Bayard would become President for four years under the provisions of the law. The contingency of two deaths fraught with such immense consequences seems remote and improbable, but it is not so much so as that of the Attorney General reaching the Presidency through the death of President, Vice-President and six Cabinet officers above him, a possibility that was amply and carefully provided for. The defect will probably be attended to by the next Congress, if pressed upon its attention. The powers and functions of the local courts should be of full informed day and night the new Cabinet and installed.

VERY PLAIN TALK.

Gen. Butterworth of Cincinnati blurted out an old-fashioned American opinion of the dictatorial manners of labor organizations yesterday during a debate in the House over a proposition to reduce the royalty on steam printing presses used in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing from $1 to one cent per thousand impressions. The effect of the reduction would be to drive out the presses and restore the hand printing machines. This would call into service 160 additional employees in the bureau. The amendment, it appears, had been proposed at the dictation of the organization of hand plate printers. A debate ensued, in which the change was supported by Mr. McAdoo of New Jersey and opposed by Messrs. Landis of Illinois and Long of Massachusetts. Mr. Butterworth joined the latter, and we print a report of his remarks:

"Mr. Butterworth of Ohio said that the organization of the hand-plate printers had declared war upon those machines and had determined that they should go. If they ought to go on their merits, let them go; but if they ought not to go on their merits, the fact that these gentlemen desired them to go was not the slightest reason for putting them out. He had been told (he did not know what truth there was in it) that the men who worked on the steam presses were hissed and annoyed while going to and from work by the hand printers. If this were true, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Superintendent of the Bureau ought to be impeached for not vindicating the right of a man in this country to earn his bread. (Applause.) If it were true, he had been Superintendent, the man who had hissed would not have come into the Bureau if he could prevent. This was still America, and his boy had a right to work without asking the permission of any organization of men. If he could not, he (Mr. Butterworth) was in favor of revolution. (Applause.) He had been informed that as the steam press men went to work, the 'Dead March' was whistled. If that were true, it was an unpardonable outrage committed within the shadow of the Capitol. The speaker wanted to put himself in this position—that not by his vote should there be a change in the presses at the behest or dictation of any combination, society or collection of individuals. A committee had been appointed by the House to look into the character of the work of the steam press; and he was solicitous to know whether the witnesses testified as they would have testified had it not been for the reign of terror established in the Bureau."

Mr. Butterworth—"We have pretty nearly reached a condition of things in this country where nobody has the right to discharge." (Laughter.)

Mr. Foran—"And I am glad of it." Mr. Butterworth—"I recommend to the Knights of Labor to establish a whipping post in front of the Capitol, and lick about twenty-five members of the House on the last Saturday in each month. (Laughter.) I hope that in God's providence the time will come when our manhood will assert itself, and we will not sneak like politicians, as I have seen the House do over and over again, at the dictates of some glib men in the galleries. (Applause.) I have compromised my manhood once or twice; I hope that the next time I do it I shall be paralyzed where I stand. (Applause.) We have witnessed enough of the vassalage of the Senate and House and members of the Government in various places."

"The pater, the speaker continued, teemed with suggestions that men were to be shot for making contracts for their labor. They were to be hanged. He objected to that, and the reason he spoke of it now was that it was well known that whenever a thing was requested by a certain organization the House did it and hunted for the reasons to do it."

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR MR. CLEVELAND.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations yesterday agreed to and reported an amendment to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill for the appropriation of $100,000 to establish a naval rendezvous and coaling station on the Samoan Islands, and $500,000 to be at the discretion of the President in protecting the rights and property of American citizens in Samoa and in carrying out our treaty obligations toward the King of that country. The amendment coincides with suggestions made by Secretary Whitney, who wishes to buy land for a coaling station instead of relying upon one-year leases, and has also asked Congress for "a definite national policy regarding this group of islands" for his information and guidance, and "reasonable provision for the future necessities of commerce and of the navy in that locality." The amendment gives the President full discretion in the expenditure of the half million for defense. It is a notice to the administration that it is expected to employ adequate means for the protection of American citizens and the carrying out of the terms of the treaty.

An article which we copy from the Tribune elsewhere shows what a diplomatic muddle Mr. Bayard has made of this Samoan matter by his secret agreement. Though the secret is still well guarded in the State Department, enough correspondence is brought to light to show that Mr. Bayard has been beaten at every point, that even the free and fair election of a King and Vice King by the people, which was one of the provisions of the compact, was effected by German dictation, the chiefs being forced to sign submission to Tamassoe, the usurper forced upon them, "under cover of the German guns." And Mr. Bayard has, without protest, allowed this proceeding to be established as the popular election which was provided for in the secret agreement. The San this morning prints a lengthy review of occurrences at the Islands, including some protests by Commander Leary of the United States steamer Adams against outrages upon American citizens, and the insolent replies of the German commander, and indignantly refers to the evidence thus furnished of Bayard's ineptitude, as being contained, "not in any possibly exaggerated or inaccurate newspaper correspondence from Apia, but in the official reports and letters of a brave and intelligent American naval officer, whose honest blood must have boiled again and again when he remembered the restraint he was under, thanks to the feeble policy of a bamboozled and outwitted administration at Washington."

The action of the Foreign Relations Committee will without doubt be approved by the Senate. The action of the House will be watched with interest. Under ordinary circumstances such an expression of confidence in the administration from an opposition Senate would be quickly seized upon, if for no other reason more patriotic than the opportunity presented to hand and expend a large sum of money. But Mr. Cleveland is said to show some embarrassment over the trouble, due to his reluctance to hand it over in an unsettled and disturbing condition to his successor. He can accept the action of the Senate as a warrant to him to proceed at once to assert the rights of the United States and the honor of the American flag. This is a magnificent opportunity for him to cover a multitude of mistakes by one grand act of patriotism and courage.

DIED AT HIS POST.

The closeness of the House in the fifty-first Congress has made the health and the lives of members a subject of unusual interest. When the health of Representative Nutting of the Oswego district, this state, was announced to be precarious, there was much anxiety among Republicans, which was not relieved until the statement was published that the complaint was of a milder nature and that he was recovering. Then came the news that Representative Laird of Nebraska was dying of brain fever. Mr. Laird is still alive, but it is feared that his mind is permanently injured, and that he will never again be capable of doing public service even if he survives. This will undoubtedly take one vote from the Republican side, as Mr. Laird is not in the proper mental condition to prepare and tender a resignation.

The work of actual death, however, was reserved till yesterday, when Hon. James N. Burnes of the fourth Missouri district fell at his desk and was carried unconscious to his hotel. Though three practicing physicians, members of the House, were instantly at his side and other medical assistance was called, he lived only till about one o'clock this morning. His death is the first on the list of the new House. He was first elected in 1882 by a plurality of 2,754, and entered the forty-eighth Congress as a Democrat. He has been re-elected at each successive election, his plurality in 1888 being 3,137. His home is the Republican city of St. Joseph, and his district included Andrew, Atchison, Buchanan, Holt, Nowaday and Platte counties. He has been an active, distinguished and honorable Representative, and the manifestations of grief over his sudden demise are deep and earnest on both sides of the House.

The political Almanacs received at this office, including those published by the Albany Argus, Brooklyn Eagle, Philadelphia Record, Philadelphia Times, and several others of Democratic origin, in their lists of the fifty-first Congress invariably concede the Republicans five majorities. The hopeless illness of Mr. Laird and the death of Mr. Burnes leave the relative strength of the two parties unchanged, and weaken the argument in favor of an extra session because of the contingency of death. An extra session will with out doubt be necessary for the admission of the Northwestern territories and a proper adjustment of the revenue laws, but it is not necessary in order to protect the rights or present advantages of either party in the organization of the House.

THE SECRET SAMOA COMPACT.

What Mr. Bayard Agreed to—How Bismarck Observed the Bargain.

Secretary Bayard, in a recent interview published in the Baltimore Sun, has admitted the fact that the Samoan Conference resulted in a secret agreement. As Congress has been invited to assume joint responsibility with the administration for American policy in the South Pacific, it ought to have been put in possession of the text of this agreement, which the President submitted what he described as a full exhibit of the correspondence. This duty was urgent, since the impression prevailed that the conference had adjourned without reaching any decision respecting Samoan affairs. Congress cannot responsibly be expected to take action on this question when it has not been informed of the precise nature of the obligations assumed by the government in the secret agreement, which, as Secretary Bayard explicitly admits, was entered into by the President and Mr. Bayard.

What was this agreement? There are several dispatches in the budget of diplomatic correspondence published last April which throw light upon this interesting question. The first session of the conference was held June 23, 1887, and the second was an adjournment during July. On August 19 the German squadron arrived at Samoa with a demand for indemnity; Tamassoe was immediately installed as king; and on September 17 King Malietoa was received on board the flagship as a prisoner of war. When details of these proceedings had been supplied to the State Department from Apia, Secretary Bayard sent duplicate copies of the following dispatch to Mr. Pendleton in Berlin and to Mr. Phelps in London.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, Oct. 11, 1887. Mr. Bayard informs Mr. Pendleton that from the reports of Mr. Sewall, United States Consul-General at Apia, it appears that the German Government is very dissatisfied and that it can only be made more so by the attitude of the United States. He is instructed to preserve a strict neutrality, but this Government is anxious in pursuance of its treaty with Samoa, to secure a peaceful adjustment of the difficulty and a considerate treatment of Samoans. Mr. Pendleton is requested to suggest to the German Government the advisability of the immediate election of a King and Vice-King, as agreed to in the conference, and the issuance of identical instructions to the representatives of the treaty powers at Apia to favor such an election, leaving other matters discussed in conference for subsequent consideration.

Here, then, is a definite reference to the secret agreement. Germany, after participating in a reference held on the basis of the neutrality and autonomy of Samoa, had violated its pledges to England and the United States, disturbed the existing status, and obtained control of the islands by declaring war on the king who had been deposed by American consular officers from defending himself against Tamassoe, Secretary Bayard, dazed by German audacity and influence, naturally caught up the secret agreement, the ink of which was hardly dry, and suggested the immediate election of a king, "as agreed to in conference."

The sequel is contained in a letter from Mr. Pendleton, dated October 13, 1887, describing an interview with Prince Bismarck on the previous day. Without reading his dispatch, the American Minister proposed to the German Government "an immediate election of a king and vice-king, as agreed to in the conference," and that the three Powers should issue identical instructions to their representatives to promote such election. Prince Bismarck, after listening with "an attention almost painfully strained to catch each word," immediately replied that there had been an election of a king; and on the next day produced a dispatch from the German Commander stating that the chiefs had recognized Tamassoe's authority on September 15. Mr. Pendleton again renewed Mr. Bayard's proposal for an election of a king and vice-king, laying, as he wrote, "some stress upon the words," "as had been agreed to by the conference," and the propriety of identical instructions. Prince Bismarck "rather felicitated me," remarks the American Minister, "that the German purpose of my government in proposing the immediate election of a king, as a means of preserving the peace and order of the island, had been anticipated by the Samoans, and that this having been so readily accomplished and with favorable results, there was nothing for the government to do in that direction."

The secret agreement, then, related to the election of a king and vice-king; and when Secretary Bayard, after the dignity of the United States had been wantonly affronted

by the bad faith and usurpations of the Germans in Samoa, mildly suggested that the compact should be carried out, Prince Bismarck insisted that it had been done already, and sent his compliments and best wishes to Secretary Bayard. How had it been done? The chiefs had been forced to sign submission to Tamassoe, under cover of the German guns. Brandeis had proclaimed: "It is strictly forbidden that any discussion should take place relating to the question as to whether it is good or not that Tamassoe is King of Samoa, both at this or any future time." The helpless chiefs, huddled together in a corner, and deprived of their liberties, signed a paper which was handed to them with menace. That was the popular election on which Mr. Bayard insisted himself to be felicitated as fully in accord with the secret agreement of the conference.

SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES.

Keeping a diary is not what it is cracked up to be. Thirty days of accuracy is about the limit of the endurance; but Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has never yet disappointed any one who has used it.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourdon, Ind., writes to Dr. J. H. Clark, New York, N. Y., dated Oct. 13, 1887: "I have used your 'LIFE'S CONSUMPTION CURE.' Sold by Frederick J. R. Clark."

Sick headache is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which tones and regulates the digestion, and creates an appetite.

AN ENGLISH MEDICAL AUTHORITY affirms that the best regimen for preserving health may be summed up in the maxim, "keep the head cool, the feet warm and the bowels active." There is a world of wisdom in the observation. Obsolete congestion, or constipation, is an exciting cause of other diseases; and with many persons of sedentary habits or occupations this inaction of the bowels is a source of chronic annoyance, producing piles, prostration of the system, and various dyspeptic symptoms. All these are ward offed and health is maintained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets.

A SOUND LEGAL OPINION. E. Bainbridge, Monday, Feb. 4, County Attorney Clay County, Texas, says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. H. L. Wadsworth, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: "I positively believe he would have died had it not been for Electric Bitters. This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all ailments, and for all kinds of Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequalled. Price 50c, and $1, at Van Deusen Bros., Rondout, and J. R. Clark's, Kingston."

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, annoying and disgusting the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by the introduction of modes of treatment until the introduction of Kie's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

KATE FIELD'S BUSTLE. Kate Field says she is tired of the world, and "would like to live apart from the fashionable bustle." Let her take it off then. Anna Jenkins, a lady of Marietta, Pa., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine I've ever taken. These pills are a tonic, all-around, and a mild cathartic. Malaria and torpid liver vanish before their use. All women and men who need them."

EVERYBODY LIKES to be called handsome, especially the young ladies. But that is simply impossible as long as their face is covered with pimples and eruptions. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will remove all such blemishes, and make your face fair and rosy.—Fannie Bell, Beloit.

PILES! PILES! ITCHING PILLS. Symptoms: Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; when scratching, followed by continued tumors from which bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Dr. Williams' Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and finally removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50c. Dr. Williams & Son, Philadelphia.

Leading physicians recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Old and young take it with perfect safety. It cleanses the blood, strengthens the nerves, and vitrifies the system. Popular exportation of this long placed this medicine at the head of tonic affairs.

They are deservedly popular over all others—Hop plasters, quick-acting, pain-killing and soothing.

INTERESTED PEOPLE. Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for Coughs and Colds does it is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle free, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

SAY NO ILL OF THE YEAR TILL IT BE PAST. The winter brings you chapped lips, nose, nose, cold cracks, etc., but a box of Hop Ointment, endorsed by leading society, will prove a saving to you. Never use any other. At druggists, 25c, or by mail stamps to Hop Co., New London, Conn. Sample free.

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating, is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner. Don't forget this.

A LUCKY MAN. Mr. Lyman Crawford, druggist, of Springfield, Mass., says: "For years I was troubled with kidney disease in its worst form, and I state, with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me, that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, Rondout, N. Y., gave me permanent relief."
